FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. Properties of the game play will continue to change with each iteration of the game. Join the conversation and comment on this article in the FORUM section of our forums. The gameplay in FIFA has always been one of the most highly detailed in sports games on the market. With FIFA 22 EA is going to take things to the next level with the introduction of new, cutting-edge motion-capture technology. The "HyperMotion Technology" system will allow for a new level of accuracy and realism that is only found in videogames today. Taking advantage of 22 separate motion trackers, the data collected will be used to power real-life player movements, speed, accuracy and a myriad of other factors. As a result, footballers can be given "player characteristics" which could give them an edge over their opponents in terms of players' realism. The further nuances of player movement, like each foot, whether a player has artificial knee or hip replacements, the height and weight of a player, will all be accounted for. Footwork, movement, energy and the exact speed at which a player is moving will all be accurately recreated. While this is being performed, the player movement will be played back in real-time and the exact movements of the players will be highlighted on the field in correct 3D. The data collected from the players will be measured and converted into metrics which EA will use to calculate the exact player speed and speed of progression through the game. While this is being done, the player will be recreated through the motions of a model and post-processing will take care of making the footwork and overall foot movement realistic. New walking and running animations will be used to create a more realistic walking and running performance, and players will be able to run at greater speeds than ever before.

The FIFA franchise is one of the most enjoyed football simulations in the world with millions of fans across all platforms. It's EA SPORTS' authentic and official license to create new FIFA versions and bring the gameplay, graphics, music, teams and stadiums to life. Every FIFA game is developed by our talented teams of developers based in Vancouver, Canada and our Spanish studio. What's new in FIFA? FIFA 22 continues to leverage the Power of Change™ philosophy introduced in the landmark FIFA 21. This new approach allows our game developers to react faster and advance the game in ways that will enhance the gameplay experience. Powered by Football Being an authentic simulation, FIFA brings players to stadiums, creates teams, signs players, and manages tactics and much more. It's built for real fans - and fans of football - who want to be inspired by the world's greatest games. New Game Engine Artists have created a game engine that brings to life the speed, fluidity and drama of football in striking new ways. The refined Player Impact Engine captures the unpredictability of real-world collisions between players and other parts of the pitch. Players impact and react to events more realistically, with immediate effects. All-New Skill Controls The new control layout has been designed to strike the perfect balance between intuition and decision-making. Connect with the ball and players with new Precision Jump, Touch, and Step controls to move and make plays in any situation. Experience Dynamic and New Commentary The new Commentary Engine brings a fresh, conversational commentary style to the action. Visceral action commentary brings a completely new tone and style to the game, complimenting the unfolding drama of the action. New Authentic Stadiums and Ball Physics The refined PES engine allows the ball to be a bigger part of the gameplay, making it move and feel more like the real thing. Stitches of the pitch's fabric break and deform like real-world turf, while the ball is dynamically influenced by players, the surface and weather. Plus, the use of a tuned cover system gives stadiums a more authentic feel. Skill Games A new Focus mode allows you to play a quick-thinking game against a CPU-controlled opponent, evaluating player attributes like vision, touch, decision-making, and long-range shooting.
